A NOVEL CENTENNIAL IDEA-

Shall Heaven's Mesterplece be Omitted? WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4, 1875.
To the Editor of the National Republican:
Sin: Itenotvery often that I bave a brilliant idea, and when I do I think the country ought to have the benefit of it. A specimen of nearly everything man has invented and made will be on exhibition at the Centennial; why should the masterpiece of God's work be omitted: Let a prize be offered for the most perfect specimen physically of a man, and have a committee selected competent to make the measurements, and let the Apolio Belvidere be the standard; and let the contest be open to the world; and, besides this, a committee of ladies (no gentlemen need apply) might be selected to determine, after the standard of the Venus de Medicis, who is the handsomesi woman in the world. I have no idea but what America would carry off both prises. In addition to the movelly of such a contest, it would become a powerful promoter of correct physical culture and development, and thereby do much good. The idea is quite easy of extension so as to include babies up to eighteen months old and boys and gris up to seven years. There may be some unthinking persons who will be inclined to laugh at this idea, but the more it is reflected upon the more desirable will it seem.

Yours for physical culture,

Helber Giends may have nome view on this at the Centennial; why should the masterplece of Yours for physical culture, APOLLO.

A Pleasant Affair. The large audience which assembled at Lyceum hall last night to enjoy the literary and musical entertainment given by Morning Star Lodge, No. I. O. G. T., best attests the appreciation in which the affair was received by the public. The programme was choice, as well as admirably conducted, and did credit not only to the large num-ber of performers, but to the taste with which it was arranged by the committee charged with the was arranged by the committee charged with the duty. If one might venture to discriminate where all did so well, the tableau vivant and pantomine performances of Miss Annie Lewis would be pro-nounced as worthy of especial mention. It is sel-dom that a juvenile performer is found uniting so buch of self-possession with such marked ability, ir. W. H. Gaines, of the Third Auditor's office, id himself much credit in his bass solo, though or several days past laboring under indisposition rom a severe cold.

The Morning Star and the other several lodges of Good Templars in the District are doing much to advance the cause of temperance by reinstating those who have fallen a pray to run to a social equality and warmth of friendly intercourse which the roughest nature cannot fail to appreciate. It is the social feature of the lodge exercises which gives, the Good Templars success, and Morning gives, the Good Templars success, and Morning Star Lodge pever falls to be in the adva-A Public Urinal-WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 3, 1815, To the Editor of the National Republican: Sin: This may be of great benefit, or it may become a public nuisance. In our public park in this and other cities they are ornamentally constructed and so located and adorned as not to offend but even to please the public eye. Thes are generally under the control of the Board of Health. In this city our Board of Health has done excellently well, and our city is ably cared for in a sanitary point of view. But great men are liable to great mistakes, and our Board of Health has committed an aimset inexcusable blunder in locating a public urinal where they have, at the corner of Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue. It requires no stretch of the imagination to see what a public nuisance this will be. This is the most frequented place in the city, and our wives and daughters are sompelled to stand there on the corner to wait for the earl. Now to the Board of Health, which has been handling the subject of night soil almost every ione excellently well, and our city is ably care Now to the bard of resite, which has been handling the subject of night soil almost every day for years, it may seem all right to allow men to be thus publicly exposed and compel our citizens to be spectators, but to our community this urinal is a public nuisance. Remove it, gentlemen, to the opposite square, and cover it with trees,

A Bold Thief and a Quick Arrest-Mr. William B. Hawes yesterday morning wen into the Bank of Washington for the purpose o depositing some money, and, while waiting fo the cashier to attend to him, pieced his bank-book, containing $130, on the counter in front of book, containing $120, on the counter in front of him. A well-dressed young man came up, and remarked to Mr. Hawes that he had dropped a note. Mr. Hawes looked down, and seeing a note lying at his feet, stooped and picked it up. A few minutes afterward he discovered that his book and money and the gentleman who had spoken to him about the note on the floor had disappeared. It is supposed that the note business was a dedge to attract attention from the theft. The officers at headquarters were notified at once, and a little being 12 o'clock Detective McDevitt arrested two men at the Baltimore and Potomac depot, who were just in the act of leaving the city. They gave their names as Charles Brown and George Davis. On the former was found six twenty-dollar bills and one ten, making all of the $130 taken from Mr. Hawes. Brown also had on his person $80 in smaller bills. siso had on his person $80 in smaller bills Brown was recognized as the well-dressed man who had vanished from the bank.

Mardi-GrasSe quictly have the arrangements been carried on that our special local giving information of the Carnival—a real Madri-Gras—in this city next February, created considerable surprise. It is a festival of which the North of this country knows very little; it is, however, the popular fets of the South, and has been very successfully attempted in Washington. The Carnival for next February here our people must understand as a sure thing. It is in the hands of those who always carry through what they attempt. We ask for them the assistance of all other societies whose pugposes bear upon such festivals. Undoubtedly, the old Mannerchor will be glad to receive and consider suggestions. This is a matter in which our business men should take a lively interest, for there is nothing aside from the Centennial calculated to attract more to our city than just such a fete. The Mannerchor is already in communication with the Mystic Krews of the Southern cities, and will receive from them valuable aid and ideas.—Patiadelphic Press, November 4.

The Importance of an "If." The inadvertent omission in the middle of a sentence in Dr. Howland's remarks in the report of the Potomac Fruit Growers' meeting Wednesof the Potemac Fruit Growers' meeting Wednes-day merning caused him to say what he did not say. The sentence should have read as follows: "Dr. Howland said that he disliked to bring up personal matters before the association, but if the statements in the extract were true their score-tary, Dr. Snodgrass, was not fit to be a member of the association, and was especially unfitted to be an officer, and the association ought to expect him." This correction is due to both Dr. How-land and Dr. Snodgrass, as in the report it ap-peared as though the former believed that Dr. Snodgrass was guilty.

Queer German Customs. A correspondent of the Evening Fost, writing from Melsungen, thus pleasantly refers to the customs of that city, which are the same as those preceding the time of Luther:

customs of that city, which are the same as those preceding the time of Luther:

Some of the customs of the city are nearly as old as its towers. The night-watch calls the hours of the night from each corner in the very same words, we may suppose, to which these streets echoed long before Luther's time, and his shrill horn and deep, monotonous sing-song, breaking the perfect stillness of the night, seem not unlike a voice from the remote past, as he calls—

"Listen, and hear me, gentlemen:

The bells have rung the hour of ten:

Take care of the fire and undid-light,
That no harm befall the city to night,
And now praise God, the Lord."

Indeed, I doubt if the city would seem strange to its inhabitants of the sixteenth century. Of a Sunday morning especially the oburch-going profession is something curious to see. There are the ladies and gentlemen looking like pictures from a fashion book of ever so long ago; peasant men in their sack coats of colored linen and red or green hats; their wives in short dresses and tall black silk caps, with long ribbon streamers; and, best of all, the pretty, tresh-faced Madchens, with their hair decorously pinned in tight braids list across the back of their heads, as Kaulbach sometimes shows them to us. Then comes the Herr Paster, who, happening to be a man of Luther's acrors the back of their heads, as Kaulbach some-times shows them to us. Then comes the Herr Pastor, who, happening to be a man of Luther's build, and wearing a robe and velvet hat strik-ingly similar to Luther's, confirms the impression that this is 1852, and the brave old reformer is here on his way from Wartbirg, in neighboring; Elisenach, to quiet his too scalous followers. We have every reason to believe that the doors of the old church were not so freely opened to him as to bis successor, and yet if we follow the people into the ancient stone building the impression that we

The Most Bemarkable Remedy Eyer Discovered The Most Bemarkable Remedy Ever Discovered

DENSOR'S CAPCIES POROUS PLASTER.
At no time in the history of true medicine has an article appeared which has not with greater approval and success than Benson's Capcine Plaster. Why they are preferred to all other porcus plasters is owing to their improved comcontition; they actinstantaneously, cure speedily and effectually.

Physicians and the general public who acknowledge the great hemetits derived from the use of the ordinary porous plaster, however, maintain that their action is not sufficiently prompt, requiring time, patience und continuous wear to effect a cure. Benson's Capcine Plaster overcomes this difficulty by accomplishing in a few hours that which it takes any other plaster as many days.

Although a vecent discovery. Capcine has been safe, certain and theroughly efficacious remedy ever discovered.

Incorporating Capcine in an improved Porous Plaster has been accomplished after repeated solicitations from the medical fraternity, and is now prescribed by them with unprecedented success; especially in rheumalism, pleurist, stubborn colds, kidney compliants and all diseases for which a porous plaster has been used.

It is marvelous influence over the circulation and general effect on the system is almost incredible; from the moment of its application to the affected part it operates with astonishing vigor—brings relief ann cores with astonishing vigor—brings relief ann cores with astonishing vigor—brings relief ann cores wore affectably than any known plaster, indiment or compound.

It is a gennine, has manufaction in preparation of the highest order of ment; its ingredients are entirely vegetable such free from mineral or metalionism. One that will convince the most skeptical of its supprincipy very the ordinary porous plasters. When you desire prompt and immediate relief, ask your drugsts, too Henson's Capcine Plaster.
